CLIENT BRIEFING NOTES

Including the Project Terms and NDA

September – December 2015
Cambridge Venture Project – testimonials of value creation

“We gave the team a very broad brief - new company, new market. The students produced a very useful piece of work for us, understanding all tech implications. They gave us three options with pro’s and con’s, which we can bear in mind over the coming years. I liked the way team conducted the interviews, then used the ‘gestalt’ of those to inform their hypothesis and further. They did a great job.”

Pilgrim Beart, 1248,

“The project has been incredibly valuable to us. The team was very quick to understand both Emmaus and the project requirements and as a client the initial meetings were very insightful, with the team members sharing their experiences and bringing them to bear on the project. The passion from the team and their desire to help Emmaus was fantastic.”

Alexandra Cubitt, Emmaus

“This was a difficult project to undertake in a complex environment within a short time period. The team produced a comprehensive model and found multiple value propositions….. The team were great to work with, professional attitude and all members contributed over the course of the project”

Chris Shelley and Lynn Golding, Sentec,

Cambridge Venture Project overview

The Cambridge Venture Project (CVP) is an integral part of the Cambridge MBA. It is the first 'live' project for the core MBA programme, in which a team of four/five Cambridge MBA students are assigned to work with a company/organisation or entrepreneurial venture to estimate the potential market for a new product or service.

For the client, the CVP is an opportunity to work with a team of four/five bright, mature Cambridge business students with diverse backgrounds and market analysis skills at no cost. For students this is an excellent way to gain insight into the challenges faced when starting a new venture and the difficulties of working in small and new teams.

From a teaching perspective, the key learning outcome of the CVP is to develop management and team skills. The CVP provides the opportunity for students to apply the tools they are being taught in the Management Praxis course to their CVP group work.

We are inviting interesting, challenging market research proposals from clients who have a genuine interest in the problem and are prepared to commit time and energy to the MBA team.

The CVP client

As a CVP client, you are required to have regular face to face meetings with your CVP team which is based in Cambridge. Your company should have at least 4 full-time employees, a product, treatment or service for which you may might want to:

- investigate market opportunities for a new product, service or treatment;
- evaluate consumer behaviour and competitive forces in relation to these, using qualitative and quantitative analysis techniques;
- generate insights into potential business strategies, opportunities for commercialisation and possible routes to market.

CVP clients can be based outside Cambridge. Clients are required to attend the CVP Client Briefing on 12 October at 17:30 and the CVP final presentations (one hour slot) between 7-10 Dec at the Business School.

Read what our CVP partners have to say about the CVP:

The Cambridge MBA student team

Cambridge MBA students come to us from more than 40 countries, all with excellent qualifications and an average of seven years work experience. The CVP teams, comprising of four/five MBA students, are deliberately constructed as diverse teams. CVP teams have a reputation for delivering fresh, objective and robust results of real practical value. You have the opportunity to tap into this unrivalled pool of expertise - professional consulting at a fraction of the cost!
Agreeing the project brief

Once your project is selected, you will be introduced to your team on 8 October via email. Your team members will then contact you to introduce themselves. On 12 October all CVP clients are invited to the Business School to meet their teams and project mentors, and to begin scoping the project.

As the students work on the CVP alongside their other lectures and assignments, we encourage them to contain the project by focusing on one over-arching question, with actionable and deliverable results. Based on your discussions, the students will produce a mutually agreed Project Initiation Document (PID) which will form the basis of their work. The deadline for PID submission is 29 October 2015.

Developing the project brief is an important part of the team’s learning. Students are expected to work with you to:

- Agree on the over-arching question on which they should focus
- Consider the resources available to the group and how to make best use of them
- Look at the type of research needed to deliver the brief and agree what information and resources will be needed from you (data, contacts, facilities, budget, etc.)
- Consider risks and how to mitigate them
- Produce a detailed project plan and timetable

Team mentors

Each team is assigned a mentor who will help focus their efforts. Mentors are seasoned business people and entrepreneurial alumni of the Business School assigned to your project. Their role is to offer constructive criticism to the team and to guide the students during the project.

Client briefing session and reception

A CVP Briefing and Drinks Reception will be held at 17:30-21:00 on Monday 12 October at Cambridge Judge Business School where your attendance is a prerequisite.

The Director of MBA Projects will set the expectations of the CVP in a client briefing session at 17:45-18:15. You are then invited to meet your teams between 18:15-19:30 followed by a drinks reception from 19:30-21:00.
The project begins

Once the PID is signed off by clients, mentors and students and submitted on the 29 October, teams can formally begin their project. It is assumed that the team of five will work for a total of about 160 hours over the duration of the project, 21 project days in total as a team until the final presentation date in December. We ask that client contacts are accessible during this period to promptly answer any queries in your area of expertise. Alongside working on their CVPs, students are also expected to attend lectures and complete other assignments. We hope you will understand that they are not allowed to miss any lectures to complete project work and will have to arrange to meet clients outside the MBA timetable.

Deliverables and Assessment

The deliverable is a 20-minute presentation of the team’s findings followed by 20 minute Q&A and debrief. The presentations will take place over Mon-Thurs, 7-10 December at Cambridge Judge Business School in the presence of you, the team mentor and two members of faculty. Your team will book an hour’s slot to suit your schedule that week.

Your attendance to your team’s final presentation is mandatory. We will ask you to complete a project feedback document after the presentation on your team’s performance.

Resources required

All clients assign a sponsor, and another point of contact, who should be available over the duration of the project to guide and advise the students and respond to any queries in a timely manner. The time the sponsor spends on the project will vary depending on its nature and scope, but the average is around three days over the two-month period. We generally find that clients get out of these projects what they put into them, so we recommend establishing weekly update meetings to ensure that the project is on track and to identify early any outstanding issues or difficulties. Most of the work will be conducted off-site and you are welcome to meet your team at Cambridge Judge Business School.

There is no fee for the work but client companies are expected to meet all expenses associated with the project, including phone calls, which we will charge at cost. Expenses are rarely more than a few hundred pounds for the team. Please make sure that both you and the student team understand and agree in writing the expenses you are prepared to meet in your PID. Students must not incur expenses without your prior approval, and we ask that expenses are reimbursed promptly.
Data and company information

A list of databases and industry information available to our students can be seen at www.jbs.cam.ac.uk/infolib. Please provide any other company or industry specific data relevant to your project as early as possible to enable the team to manage their assignment effectively.

Confidentiality

All students and mentors sign a confidentiality agreement (included in attached Projects Terms document) before they begin the project. The Projects Terms document details the conditions under which our projects are undertaken; we ask you to read these carefully and confirm your acceptance of the terms when you submit your proposal.

Please note that students are expected to abide by ethical guidelines in the consultancy projects and for this reason are required to identify themselves and their client company when seeking to obtain information from third parties.

Submitting your proposal

If you would like to submit a proposal for the CVP, please complete and return the attached proposal form or use the online form on our website:

www.jbs.cam.ac.uk/projectproposal.html

Proposals must be submitted by Wednesday 2 September and we will let you know by Friday 2 October whether we have found you a team. The CVP is hotly contested and invariably over-subscribed; we cannot guarantee that all proposals submitted will be assigned a team.
