Submitting your proposal

If you would like to submit a proposal for the GCP please use the online form on our website: www.jbs.cam.ac.uk/projectproposal.html

Alternatively email mbaprojects@jbs.cam.ac.uk to request a Proposal Form in word format.

Proposals must be submitted by Wednesday 11 January 2017. You will be introduced to your team of four/five students by Wednesday 15 February 2017.

The GCP is hotly contested and over-subscribed, so we cannot guarantee that all proposals submitted will get taken up.

Overview

The Global Consulting Project (GCP) is an educational collaboration between a client organisation and Cambridge Judge Business School. It has become one of the cornerstones of the Cambridge MBA, allowing students an important opportunity to put into practice what they have learnt in class. In turn, clients benefit from an international team of bright, motivated and committed professionals who bring their considerable skills and experience to bear on a real business issue that would usually require the services of a consulting firm.

The Cambridge MBA is regarded as one of the best MBAs in the world; our students come to us from more than 40 countries, all with excellent qualifications and on average seven years work experience. We do not charge a fee for the project but clients are required to meet all project expenses. We ask clients to endeavour to provide substantial projects that, as the name implies, take account of the global nature of business today.

Scoping your project

Your project may cover any business and management strategy problem and may be located in any commercial, industrial, public sector or not-for-profit organisation, either in the UK or overseas. Students are looking to the GCP for opportunities to further their global experience. Previous projects have included complete strategic reviews, benchmarking and best practice analysis, diversification assessments, developing new market strategies – in short management assignments of all types. Please refer to ‘GCP Case Studies’ document which describes a selection of the projects completed in previous years.

How it works

Submitted GCP proposals are presented to the students, who will then bid for the project of their choice. Students work in teams of four or five and every effort is made to ensure that all teams are balanced and diverse, with the relevant skills and experience for the job. We do receive more project proposals than we can resource, so cannot guarantee that all submissions will be taken up.

Clients have the option of selecting their teams if their project is oversubscribed. Once a team has been assigned to your project, members of the team will contact you to introduce themselves and to start work with you on developing the Project Initiation Document.

PROJECT INITIATION DOCUMENT (PID)

An important part of students’ learning during the GCP is the development of a structured Project Initiation Document (PID). The PID is developed together - the team will discuss the scope with you and refine it into a manageable project.

During your briefing meetings with the team in February, they will use the PID template to structure your discussion of aims and expectations for the project, so all are agreed on the parameters of the work, where it is to be conducted (i.e. at client sites, in the field, at CJBS), the timetable, and interim and final deliverables.

This discussion should include consideration of the resources available to the group – contacts, data sets, facilities, access to key personnel, etc. It should also cover the type of research necessary to fulfil the objectives of the project – primary or secondary mix – and where the primary data or sample frame will come from.
Based on your discussions, the student team will then draw up a final PID and initial high-level project plan, which all parties will sign off. The aim is to create a brief that both answers a real need and makes the best possible use of individual team members’ own specialist skills and experience. The PID will clearly articulate the agreed expenses and the timelines for the project. A final PID document, including full project plan, should be signed off by all parties by 13 March, before the project itself begins on 20 March.

Resources required

EXPENSES

If your project is chosen, you are expected to meet all student expenses associated with the project, including travel, accommodation and subsistence, and pay these directly and promptly to the student team. Please ensure that systems are in place to allow the smooth and prompt payment of expenses. The client and the student team must agree in writing the expenses you are prepared to meet and include these in the project plan; students must not incur expenses without your prior approval. However, we would expect any large outlay, such as air travel or hotel accommodation, to be paid directly to the supplier by the client, so that students are not significantly out of pocket for long periods.

TIME

You are required to allocate a named project sponsor and a second contact, who will be available to the team throughout the project for advice and guidance. The time they spend on the project will vary depending on its nature and scope, but the average in the past has usually been between three to five work-days over the duration of the project, plus the final presentation. We recommend as a minimum establishing weekly update meetings to ensure that the project is on track. Client contact can either be in person, by email or phone, depending on the project and team location.

GCP supervisor

Each team will be allocated a supervisor who is a member of faculty or an associate of the Business School, who will help the GCP team focus its efforts.

Deliverables

It is assumed that the MBA team of four or five will work for a total of four weeks, full time during the University Easter vacation. Therefore, you can expect between 80 to 100 project days - depending on the size of the team - over the duration of the project.

The team’s deliverable to you is a presentation of their findings, followed by Q&A which will take place at a time and location convenient to both parties. This presentation will be recorded on video for internal compliance purposes and deleted after 12 months. The students are also required to produce a report which is marked by Cambridge Judge Business School faculty.

Client feedback

Clients are required to give formal feedback on the performance of their team and the quality and relevance of their work and findings, including their professionalism and efficiency.
Confidentiality

All students and any external supervisors sign a confidentiality agreement, before they begin the project. Our letter of terms (attached) details the conditions under which our projects are undertaken; we ask you to read these carefully and confirm your acceptance of the terms when you submit your proposal.

Please note that students are expected to abide by ethical guidelines in the consultancy projects and for this reason are required to identify themselves, and their client company, when seeking to obtain information from third parties.
Please ensure that you have read, understood and agreed to the following Global Consulting Project (GCP) Client Terms before you submit a GCP proposal.

Global Consulting Project (GCP): Client Project Terms

- All projects are undertaken by students of Cambridge Judge Business School as part of their MBA programme. As our students are not employees of the University of Cambridge, neither the University nor Cambridge Judge Business School can enter Agreements on their behalf, nor can we take any liability for their actions.
- Our students all sign confidentiality agreements (see below) and we are not able to enter any other agreement on their behalf.
- Our projects are undertaken as part of an educational programme and are examined by supervisors and examiners appointed by the University of Cambridge. All supervisors and examiners are bound contractually and in common law to keep confidential any confidential information disclosed to them in the supervision and examination of the projects.
- Our projects are student educational projects and should be seen in this context. The work does not constitute professional advice and no warranties are made regarding the information presented. Neither the authors nor Cambridge Judge Business School and its faculty accept any liability for the consequences of any action taken a result of the work, or any recommendations made or inferred.
- For the benefit of our project partners, the intellectual property rights to the work undertaken and/or the deliverables produced rest in the host company. We do ask that if you publish the findings of the deliverables, you accredit the students wherever possible, and state that work done was conducted as part of Cambridge Judge Business School MBA Students Project, GCP 2017.
- No fees are charged, but all expenses incurred in the execution of the project must be met by the host company and paid directly to the students. We recommend that you use the standard University rates (available from mbaprojects@jbs.cam.ac.uk) as a guide. The client is required to submit a project expenses code or otherwise demonstrate that funds and procedures are in place to ensure prompt payment.
- All host companies must assign a named sponsor and a second point of contact, who will be available over the duration of the project to advise and guide the students. The sponsor is expected to attend the students’ presentation and give feedback to the academic supervisor on the conduct of the work.
- Host companies must provide the agreed resources and facilities to enable the students to carry out the project effectively.
- Students are required to declare their association with Cambridge Judge Business School and with their client when collecting information from other organisations.

Please confirm that you have read, understood and accept the above terms and the following confidentiality agreement as a host company, by checking the appropriate box in the Client Proposal Form.
MBA General Confidentiality and Non-Disclosure Agreement

Signed by all MBA students

During the course of my studies/as a mentor on the MBA programme at Cambridge Judge Business School, University of Cambridge, I am likely to discuss and have access to Information, Technology and Ideas that various companies participating in the programme and Cambridge Judge Business School regard as confidential.

In consideration of my participation on the MBA Programme, I agree for the benefit of participating companies and the University of Cambridge that I will make all reasonable efforts to hold in strict confidence any Information, Technologies and Ideas that I am told in advance are confidential, and will not copy, reveal or disclose such Information, Technology and Ideas to any third party and that I will not use any such Information, Technology and Ideas for my own benefit or the benefit of any organisation with which I am affiliated now or in the future. I also agree to abide by such other rules and guidelines that Cambridge Judge Business School or the University of Cambridge may reasonably impose.

This Agreement shall not apply to any Information, Technology and Ideas which:

- at the date of this Agreement are in the public domain or subsequently come into the public domain through no fault of mine
- were already known to me on the date of disclosure, provided that such prior knowledge can be substantiated
- properly and lawfully become available to me from sources independent of the supplying party
- are disclosed pursuant to the requirement or request of a governmental agency provided that in such event I shall inform you of the nature and extent of any disclosure so required.

This Agreement shall come into effect from the date below and the obligation under the Agreement shall remain in effect for a period of three years.

This Agreement shall be subject to English law.
