Executive Education is a major activity at Cambridge Judge Business School providing open and tailored programmes to the corporate world that are built on the knowledge and expertise of our network of academics and business practitioners.

JBS Executive Education Ltd. is a limited company, wholly owned by the University of Cambridge. The department works with faculty from the Business School and the wider University to design and deliver a range of short courses for senior executives from around the world. The programmes are of broadly two types: open enrolment and custom designed programmes. Our open programmes are held throughout the year in Cambridge, and are timetabled between 12 and 18 months ahead, while custom programmes are specifically designed for our clients’ needs and can be held at quite short notice.

We are continuing to develop our business management system, which links our client relationship management (CRM) system with our finance system. All of our colleagues are required to use this system and ensure information is current and accurate.

The department

The Director of Open Programmes is responsible for the successful management and delivery of a wide portfolio of open enrolment programmes. These range from a three-week Advanced Leadership programme to a suite of two-day tightly focussed programmes which cover essential business themes. All the programmes are led by academics from the University and are delivered in Cambridge.

The role holder will join the Director and their sales and marketing colleagues in ensuring that the number of programme participants meet the targets set for the department.

As the open enrolment portfolio grows and develops, with new programmes being added to the portfolio and departmental sales targets becoming more ambitious, the Sales and Business Development Manager will be instrumental in increasing attendance for their assigned portfolio of programmes. The portfolio will be allocated by the Director, in consultation with the role holder and could be a combination of two day and flagship programmes, according to organisational requirements.

The role

As part of the front-line sales team, the role holder will be the first key contact for general programme enquiries and will channel leads into the sales pipeline. Using proven sales methods and the resources of the company’s CRM system, the role holder will seek to convert high potential leads into sales opportunities. Regularly reporting on sales achieved, the role holder will ensure that the Director is kept fully informed of progress towards the achievement of the department’s objectives.
MAIN RESPONSIBILITIES

- To be the first point of contact for prospective participants; provide tailored information to prospective participants during telephone calls and emails using active sales techniques to move them through the ‘prospect to applicant’ cycle. Initiate and build positive relationships with prospective programme applicants.

- Monitor participant numbers closely on all open programmes, with a clear focus on the pipeline and future planning, to ensure targets are met and actions planned to avoid programme cancellation or under-participation.

- With excellent knowledge of each programme in the portfolio, particularly for those in their own small portfolio, and a deep understanding of our unique selling proposition (USP) and the value of each programme, the role holder will actively target and plan for sales with a number of key organisations. This will entail considerable proactive telephone work, as well as written communication.

- Make recommendations for business development opportunities and develop a clear understanding of the market and our competitors. It is vital the role holder can handle complex questions and provide eloquent and knowledge answers and solutions.

- Understand the complexities facing target client organisations by keeping up to date with key events in the business world and having an excellent understanding of sectoral changes and key players in markets and regions.

- Support for the efficient and rapid roll out of marketing plans, working closely with the Executive Education marketing team.

- Accurately enter, update and maintain prospect and client details in our CRM database, and work closely with Executive Education technical colleagues to ensure that the open programmes team’s CRM requirements are met.

- Liaise with participants and the finance team to track revenue receipts and to encourage prompt payments in a polite and efficient manner.

- Design, monitor and operate systems interfacing with the Open Programme Managers in an efficient and timely manner.

- Take responsibility for a group of programme alumni, keeping in regular touch and maintaining warm relationships.

- Prepare regular reports for monthly business development activities reviews.

- Assist with the implementation of marketing and business development campaigns including e-mailshots and newsletters from our central database, flyer creation.

- Undertake business development research to identify key contacts in target organisations for nurturing and establishing of corporate relationships.

- Provide administrative, sales and client relationship support to the Director of Open Programmes and marketing team for recruitment activities and events.

- Assist with the roll out and implementation of new technological solutions to data management problems, in liaison with technical colleagues.

- Maintain and update information held by the company for suppliers and clients.

- Participate in and contribute to client, team and staff meetings and other ad hoc project groups as required.
• Provide regular reports on the status of each programme.
• Work collaboratively with other members of the programme management team and staff in Executive Education as well as the faculty of the School to build our reputation as a pre-eminent provider of executive education programmes.
• Ensure all income is assigned and payments made in accordance with the company's financial regulations, including payments to contributors.
• Ensure that all records in the Business Management System are accurate and kept up to date.
• Use such IT systems as the company has put in place to manage data, in accordance with company policy and data protection regulations.
