Cambridge Centre for Risk Studies - Tuesday, 11 July 2017

Pathfinder Webinar

FEEDBACK FORM

Please complete this form and send it to Kayla Strong k.strong@jbs.cam.ac.uk. Thank you.

Please score each of the research themes being presented in terms of your interest level in the research subject and importance of the subject for continued research support

	1 Low	2	3	4	5 High
A. The Potential for Multi-Line Insurance Clash from Solar Research into the threat posed by coronal mass ejections to scenarios could cause lengthy power outages in locations insurance coverages in many different classes of business.	terrestrial	power inf
Interest in research subject:
Importance for continued research into topic:
Comments and Suggestions:
B. Natural Catastrophes and their Potential Impact on Financial Markets A research program that examines the potential for very large natural catastrophes to cause correlated loss in an insurer's investment portfolio. The assumption is typically made that market risk and natural catastrophes are uncorrelated. This research explores the circumstances when this might not be true, and how scenario analysis might improve underwriting and asset risk correlation assumptions.
Interest in research subject:
Importance for continued research into topic:
Comments and Suggestions:
C. The Insurance Gap & Post-Catastrophe Recovery research activities into future growth opportunities for the insurance industry in emerging markets and prospective product lines. The research explores the role that insurance makes on the economic recovery of societies hit by catastrophes of different types, through case studies
Interest in research subject:
Importance for continued research into topic:
Comments and Suggestions:
Additional comments about the webinar, and areas of fu	ture potent	tial resea	ırch:
Name (optional)					